

SENIOR CONSULTANT - ASSESSMENT SERVICES

Sydney CBD

- Major government Human Services clients
- High profile team leading role
- Hands on major projects in a vibrant growing company

Assessments Australia is seeking to appoint a Senior Consultant to head up our consulting services arm.

You will be providing ongoing advice and support to Assessment Australia's clients on the economic and social viability of their Funding Programs, including eligibility, assessment and funding and resource allocation.

You will be responsible for the effective development and delivery of consulting products and services to a high standard of quality while establishing and strengthening our relationships with our clients.

The Company

Assessments Australia is a national market leader in independent, professional allied health assessments, data analysis and reporting services for government. Strong growth with established and new major clients in NSW and Queensland has led to the development of this new leading role in Sydney.

The Position

Working closely with our NSW Business Development Manager and Assessment Services team, you will lead our consulting activities, developing and managing projects evaluating the effective use of resources in a variety of government human services programs.

Advising senior government managers on allied health and human services resources, you will investigate the efficient allocation of labour; unit costing analysis; data collection and management; budget development and systems and process improvement.

Your work will be highly regarded and influential in forming policy and program development and will be a key differentiator in the success of our company.

The Person

You will have sound consulting experience, particularly in human services environments.

You will be well versed in research and financial analysis, able to scope and develop significant projects.

You will be fluent in data analysis and modelling tools and techniques, and will be known for your articulate and clear project reporting. Project management and team leadership will be second nature and you will realise the value of a team culture.

Your communication and presentation skills will be peerless, as will your management of strategic relationships at senior government levels.

You will have tertiary qualifications that underpin your capabilities, and you will be looking forward to being a key member of a vibrant and dynamic people oriented organisation!

For more about Assessments Australia, go to www.assessments.com.au, and to apply, email your interest and resume to joinourteam@assessments.com.au